Enjoy Music And Food At The Galway Downs International Three-Day Event

Temecula, Calif., Oct. 26, 2013 – Music, food and wine – a perfectly suited trio to make the 15th annual Galway Downs International Three-Day Event on Oct. 31-Nov. 3 an extraordinary equestrian competition.

Every day will feature music and food, and on Saturday – cross-country day, the competition’s centerpiece – fans can move through three oasis sites that will each feature popular local gourmet food trucks, local wine or beer and musicians.

“I promise that it’s going to be an absolutely amazing weekend,” said organizer Robert Kellerhouse. “Where else can you see some of our country’s best horses and riders compete while you listen to great local music and eat great local food – all at the same place? And you can even drive a Land Rover over their fantastic test track while you’re here!”

Faultline will perform as the musical headline act on Saturday night, playing from 6:00 to 10:00 p.m. Faultline, a five-member, Southern California-based party band, says their music has only one purpose: to keep the dance floor full of people. They combine rhythm and blues, Motown, disco and more to create a memorable live-music experience.

Popular local musician Lee Koch will kick off the musical acts at Wednesday night’s welcome party. The Thursday night Halloween Party will rock with DJ Mas spinning the music, and Friday night’s Taco Party will feature live music by Wild$ide.

And three more musicians – guitarist Gil Gillem, guitarist Larry Thompson and guitarist James Wells – will entertain fans on Saturday afternoon, performing in each of the three oasis points on the cross-country course (at noon, 1:20 and 3:00 p.m.).

Each oasis will feature food by one or more of the gourmet food trucks scheduled to be on site, complemented by local wine and beer.

Green Truck SD (www.greentruckonthego.com) will be serving vegan burgers, chipotle cheddar burgers, grilled yellowtail sandwiches, Firebird chicken sandwiches, pumpkin tacos, kale salad with green beans, heirloom beet and quinoa salad, and sweet potato chips.

Super Q (www.superqfoodtruck.com/bbq) will be serving BBQ-pulled pork with mac 'n cheese, brisket, chicken, cole slaw, sliders, BBQ asada fries, BBQ chicken salad, potato salad, sweet potato fries, and a few veggie options.

Two for the road (www.twofortheroadsd.lucksmediagroup.com) will be serving retro sodas, whoopie pies, shrimp BLT rolls, lobster rolls, Captain Crunch crab cakes, salmon burger, artichoke grilled cheese, Sonoma sunrise BLT and more.

Lil' Miss Short Cakes (www.facebook.com/pages/Lil-Miss-Short-Cakes/128372320631450) will be serving specialty cupcakes, cake pops, pie pops, chocolate-covered bacon strips, chocolate-covered potato chips, and some horsey cupcakes made just for Galway Downs.

If you'd like to do some off-road driving, then you can walk over to Land Rover's gravity defying test course in a new location this year – closer to the trade fair, the cross-country course, and the oasis points. You can drive a Land Rover over moguls, through water and over a bridge, to test your driving skills in these extraordinary cars.
